FIREARMS EXPERT IDENTIFIES GUNS CHICAGO MASSACRE

MACHINE GUNS WERE CAP-TURED IN HOME OF FRED BURKE RECENTLY

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(?)— Fred Burke, fugitive gunman, was named by a coroner's jury today as one of the executioners of the seventh of the seve en Moran gangsters shot down in a North Clark street garage last St. Valentine's day.

St. Valentine's day.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(A)—Major Calvin H. Goddard, ballistic expert, asserted today that markings found on bullets taken from bodies of the seven victims of the Moran gang massacre last February were identical with markings on bullets fired from the sub-machine guns found in the St. Joseph. Mich., home of Fred Burke, notorious killer, and bank bandit.

Major Goddard made his announcement in testifying before the coroners' jury reconvened today to hear the latest development in the ten months investigation of Chicago's most spectacular gang murders.

Chicago's most spectacular gang murders.

The ballistic expert said he fired 35 bullets from the weapons brought here from the St. Joseph bungalow after Burke had shot to death a traffic policeman in an argument a week ago.

He pronounced the peculiar riflings on the lead noses of the bullets and the ejector block markings on the shells identical.

The testimony was regarded as a definite link in the evidence connecting Burke with the massacre of seven of George "Bugs" Moran's north side gang in a Clark street garage last St. Valentine's Day. Burke was listed last spring as one of the 17 wanted for questioning in connection with the case and was reported to have been identified by witnesses as one of the executioners seen entering the garage just before the slayings.

His identification as the hair trigger killer of the St. Joseph policeman a week ago, and the finding of his cache of stolen bonds and his arsenal let to the resumption of the inquiry into the Moran killings.

Moderating temperatures today were expected to clear away the remainder of the snow that deluged many square miles of Central and South Texas Saturday, and bring further relief to the hill country sections or Southwest Texas where below zero temperatures were reported Sunday.

Beaming down to break through temperatures around the freezing point, a bright sun Sunday succeeded in melting a great part of the tremendous snow fall in the Hillsboro and Corsicana area. At both places old timers could not remember a like situation. Hillsboro reported a fall of 25 inches, while the fall in Corsicana was seven inches lighter.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23 .- (P)-There is CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(II)—There is virtually no question about its being a white Christmas in the Middle West this year. Early today it was getting whiter and whiter. Railroads, bus lines, street car companies in many cities had hardly gotten their heads above the snowdrifts resulting from last week's blizzard when the Chicago weather bureau warned of more snow. It began falling last night, sifting at first then heavily, but it was only of a few hours' duration. At St. Paul, Minn., it was four below zero, but in the Middle West temperatures ranged higher, from 12 above at Omaha to 30 at Milwayley.

Adults Contract Children's Discases

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an atiment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yet, the symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly expess round and pin worms from children will de the same for adults — White's Cream Vermituge, which you can get at JOHNSON DRUG CO.

Chamber of Commerce Program For 1930

The Slogan for Corsicana for the New Year Will be "1930, Corsicana's $2,000,000.00 Building Year"

All business houses are urged to use this slogan on their printed matter during the year 1930.

The Chamber of Commerce urges that those contemplating building or making improvements of any kind do so during 1930, which activity will be in keeping with President Hoover's proclamation covering the nation's building program.

That the Chamber of Commerce will Exert Every Effort to Accomplish.

- To endeavor to get the designation of Highway No. 139 to Fort Worth and its completion to Palestine and other East Texas points.
- Encourage and assist the completion of Highway No. 14 to Wortham, Highway No. 31 to Tyler and other East Texas points; connect highway between Corsicana through Dawson to the County line; and encourage development of Highway 22 to Hillsboro
- 2.—To continue more forcibly than ever a program of soil and fertility conservation and restoration, diversified farming and particularly dairy farming.
- 3.—To further the development of Corsicana as a railroad division center.
- 4.—That the staff of the Chamber of Commerce undertake the immediate compilation of an Industrial and Commercial Survey of the City which will give our organization a basis upon which they may make efforts toward securing additional enterprises.

- 5.—That a "Buy at Home" campaign be encouraged.
- 6.—That the organization co-operate and endeavor toward the further development of Navarro county's oil resources, (deep well test).
- 7.—Continue our study of and work toward the establishment of a Junior College for Corsicana.
- 8—That a joint quarterly luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Service Clubs of the City and all citizens interested in the rural and urban development of the County, be held throughout the year for social and business contact.
- 9.—That a further study be made toward Navarro county's having a permanent County-wide fair and if found feasible that the organization undertake steps to make it possible.
- 10.—Recommend to our Highway Committee that it make special efforts to keep open and have well marked all detours pending the completion of our permanent roads while under construction.

Snow; Scenes Fairylike

With a fifteen inch blanket of snow covering the city at noon and deepening at the rate of about an inch an hour, Corsicana was revelling in the heaviest snowfall in its history and literally rubbed its eyes in wonder.

Snow began falling about four o'clock Friday afternoon and continued for the greater part of the night and at the press hour Saturday afternoon, the feathery flakes were falling heavily. With the thermometer hovering between the 28 and 32 degree marks, little of the blanket melted, and within a few hours the city had all the aset melted, and within a few hours the city had all the aspects of a New England village at the Yuletide.

All available men in the street and sanitary departments were summoned to the business district and spent the day in trying to keep the sidewalks clear of snow and slush, but it was almost a losing battle.

WASHINGTON. Dec. 20.—(1)—Existing farm marketing agencies may find it necessary to make "reasonable adjustments" as the federal farm board puts its policies into operation, but, in the opinon of Chairman Legge, the need for these should be regarded purely as incidental to a changing business condition.

Mr. Legge made this clear in a statement today in answer to criticism of the board as epitomized in testimony given the senate lobby committee by Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States chamber of commerce.
Policies of the farm board, Legge said, have not been changed as the result of conferences with Barnes and private grain traders, nor has the board agreed to submit its plans to the grain trade before taking action.

Contrary to the understanding of private grain operatives, he made it clear loans to farmers from the government's revolving fund would ultimately bear an interest rate government's revolving fund would ultimately bear an interest rate comparable to that necessitated by borrowing from the usual commerborrowing from the usual commercial sources.

Legge's statement came shortly after the board's critics had been denounced by members of the house in debate on the annual appropriations bill for the agriculture department. The discussion brought forth assertions that Barnes' testimony before the lobby committee signified an effort to interfere with the law establishing the farm board and a plea that the board be permitted to show what it can do. it can do.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF DOCTORS HELD THURSDAY EVENING

MODERNIST AND FUNDAMEN-TALIST BACKGROUND FURN-ISHED FUN FOR OCCASION

Modernist and fundamentalist took vicious raps at each other at the thirtieth annual banquet of the Navarro County Medical Society at the Navarro Hotel Thursday even-ing as a mock session of the so-clety was presented in pseudo-se-rious style.

Flous style.

The large dining hall of the hotel was beautifully decorated with festoons of smilax, colored globes in Christmas colors, while the tables were lighted with tall red candles in green candle holders. The decorations were tastefully arranged by Mesdames W. W. Carter, R. C. Curtis, W. T. Shell and S. H. Burnett.

Dr R. C. Curtis was the toastmaster of the occasion. Following the invocation by Dr. T. A. Miller, the banqueters dined heavily on turkey with all the trimmings from cocktail to coffee. Radio music formed a cover for the exchanging of bits of professional blarney, gossip and the full exploitation of the "latests."

Officers Introduced.

Officers of the solcety for the ensuing year, Dr. W. W. Carter, president, and Dr. W. R. Sneed, sectetary-treasurer, were introduced. It was announced that Dr. M. L. Hanks, usually one of the leading figures at the annual banquets, was all and unable to attend was ill and unable to attend.

At this juncture it was an-nounced that a representative of the colored medical society wanted to be heard, and for several min-utes the doctors and their guests were regaled with outbursts of Lawrence (Sadie) Ransom's inimitable wit.

Dr. W. T. Shell, Jr., then gave a toast to the leaders of medicine in the past from the days of the herb betor on down to the present time. When Dr. L. E. Kelton, principal speaker, was delayed by an emergency case, his paper was read by W. P. Brown. In the paper striking tribute was paid to the old family doctor, whose instruments and medicines were limited, but whose service won him a place of lasting fame. The latter half of the treatise took to task "specialists" of today with their elaborate equipment and modern ideas.

Specialists Are Heard.

A representative of the eye, ear, nose and throat specialists, Dr. E. P. Norwood, was introduced as the most successful matrimonial bureau operator in town. This specialist immediately undertook the defense of his branch of modern medicine, and called attention to the ignorance of the old physician about the many modern allments.

A man of such truthfulness that he was sometimes known as a "George Washington" was the way in which Dr. W. K. Logsdon was introduced, and he turned to the defense of electricherapy and the use of electrical appliances for easing and cure of many diseases, enumerating many instances in which relief was provided.

Representing the internists, Dr. J. Wilson David bemoaned the ignorance of any person who would overlook the important discoveries of his branch, and the transforming of the old "bleeding" operation into a gentle "feg-pulling."

Dr. E. H Newton asserted to the was forced to defend the paper that caused the uproar, and his only criticism was that it took in too much territory when in included surgery.

Dentists Represented.

The dental profession was represented by Dr. Harry Ezell and by Dr. A. W. Rogers. The former's contribution was two sides splitting narratives, while Dr. Rogers produced a balancing stunt that turned into a riot when the performer became enraged as people moving their chairs caused him to fail in his efforts to balance an egg on the end of a pencil and he grasped the remaining eggs and hurled them directly at some of the banqueters.

Dr. Gurley Sanders of Kerens defended the bacteriologists from the tops of their stocks as the large portions of their stocks.

Dr. Gurley Sanders of Kerens defended the bacteriologists from the attack of the principal speaker and extolled the wonderful discoveries of his branch of medicine, as it isolated the various germs and then found remedies for their diseases.

Adequate defense of the surgeon was presented by Dr. W. D. Cross, who first paid tribute to the old country doctor. He asserted that his profession was as progressive as any group and that naturally there had arisen a number of specialists, all necessary. He warned the younger members about branching out too fast, and against setting too swift a gait in attempting to keep up with modern means of transportation.

Heaviest Snow of Record.
Oldtimers in Corsicana continued to wrack their memories over the week end as the yendeavored to recall a snow that was even comparable to the record-setting fall of 18 inches that began late Friday afternoon and continued for 26 hours. But it was the unanimous opinion that the snow was the heaviest to fall in this section of Texas. the record breaking snowfall. Many a child received the thrill of a lifetime when he was able to construct time when he was able to construct a monstrous snow man without depleting his supply of the icy fleece. And many an adult received an unexpected thump as his foot slipped on icy pavement and he went crashing down, or he provided a promising target for some hiddensharp-shooter.

One ambitious maiden decided to prove that the venturesome misses of other sections of the nation had no more nerve than she had and False hopes were aroused when the snowfall abated early Saturday evening, and the blanket began to melt slightly, but in a short time a chilling wind from the south began to make itself felt. Frosted windows on the south side of automobiles soon became covered with a thin coating of ice. on agricultural rates in the bill as it is being rewritten in the senate.

Asserting that "what the farmer wants" was not in the house bill, Garner asked whether the Iowan would exhaust "all parliamentary methods" to work for acceptance of the senate bill when it comes back to the house.

Ramseyer replied he wanted the rates "just and fair" to all concerned, including those on industrial products, and insisted he could not reply directly to the Texan's question because he could not say definitely what the rates were going to be.

"You are four flushing," Garner shouted. "You say you want to help the farmer, but you advance technical reasons for not doing so."

(Continued From Page 1) that fact. He went on to say that for the president to give audience to the president to give audience to the president to give audience to the president to impure the motives of the president. He declared this to farmer, and asserted the committee of Garner, and asserted the committee of Garner insistent to help the farmer, but you advance technical reasons for not doing so." r the president to o men of personal repute, on men of personal repute, on men of personal repute, on men of personal repute, or also representatives of industry or commerce, does not constitute a plot, nor is a conversation between the two a connivance."

He reproached Garner for his first statement with the assertion that it had sought by innendo and implication to impugn the motives of the president.
